SBA and Treasury release Paycheck Protection Program loan forgiveness application

The Small Business Administration (SBA) and the Department of the Treasury have released the Paycheck Protection Program loan-forgiveness application. SBA also will soon issue regulations and guidance to further help borrowers as they complete their applications and provide lenders with guidance for their responsibilities.

The form and instructions include several measures to reduce compliance burdens and simplify the process for borrowers, including:

- Addition of a new exemption from the loan-forgiveness reduction for borrowers who have made a good-faith, written offer to rehire workers that was declined.
- Implementing borrower-friendly statutory exemptions from loan-forgiveness reductions based on rehiring by Tuesday, June 30.
- Flexibility to include eligible payroll and non-payroll expenses paid or incurred during the eight-week period after receiving a Paycheck Protection Program loan.
- Options for borrowers to calculate payroll costs using an “alternative payroll covered period” that aligns with borrowers’ regular payroll cycles.
- Detailed instructions regarding the calculations to confirm eligibility for loan forgiveness.

CMS issues guidance to safely reopen nursing homes

CMS has announced new guidance detailing reopening steps nursing homes and communities should take, including infection prevention and control, testing and surveillance. The recommendations are to ensure nursing homes are taking appropriate steps to maintain resident safety and reunite families with their loved ones.

Specifically, CMS is recommending that:

- Nursing homes do not advance through reopening phases or relax restrictions until residents and staff have received baseline test results.
- Nursing homes remain in the current state of highest restriction even when communities begin to relax restrictions for other businesses and should be among the last to reopen in communities.
- State survey agencies inspect nursing homes that experienced a significant COVID-19 outbreak before reopening.

Nursing homes may receive visitors when there has been a sustained decrease in COVID-19 cases. A variety of factors must go into making this decision, including case counts and state nursing home assessments. Visitors always must be screened and wear cloth face coverings.

CMS’ guidance encourages state leaders to collaborate with survey agencies and local health departments to decide how these measures should be implemented. CMS recommends that decisions about relaxing restrictions be made with careful reviews of facilities, communities and state factors, including:

- Access to adequate personal protective equipment.
- Baseline testing of residents, weekly testing of staff, practicing physical distancing, and universal source control for residents and visitors (e.g., face coverings).
- Local hospital capacity.
- Staffing.
- The status of COVID-19 cases in communities and nursing homes.

State and local leaders are urged to regularly monitor reopening factors and adjust plans depending on virus data in their communities.
